Old Burial Ground

Wakefield, Massachusetts

Survey Conducted For The
Wakefield Historical Commission
By Neil F. O'Neill and Peter J. Scott
February 1989

Introduction

In 1989 Neil O' Neill and I, both members of the new Wakefield Historical Committee (WHC), measured the Old Burial Ground (OBG) on Church Street in Wakefield, MA. The results were recorded with an early version of CAD and print out on a 36" x 65" sheet of paper.

A numbering system was devised to identify each headstone after which an inventory form was filled out detailing the information and graphics on each stone. The inventory forms are now stored in four large three-ring binders in the Wakefield Historical Society (WHS) museum on Prospect Street.

The digital version of the CAD drawing and numbering system on the survey plan has been missing for some years. I therefore undertook to resurvey the OBG and match the numbers listed on the inventory forms to their specific stones. This process took the better part of four months and is recorded here. This information is also available in digital format.

The illustration on the cover is a stone rubbing of the head stone for Captain Jonathan Poole who died in 1678, WHC# R32. The rubbing was taken in 1973 by Cheryl Webb Scott

1989 Survey

The small-scale print of the 1989 survey printed on green paper is included to provide an understanding of the size of the OBG. At this scale, detail is not readable, but at 36" x 65", the original drawing is unmanageable in the field.

Spreadsheets

The inventory forms mentioned above are summarized in a 30 page spreadsheet listing individual names, year of death, age (if known), type of marker, WHC number, and numbers of two separate listings by the WHS.

Two versions of the spreadsheet are included here: The first, printed on white paper, is sorted by the WHC Number. The second, printed on green paper, is sorted by name

Key Plan

In order to facilitate working in the field with this document, the plan of the OBG is divided into twelve sheets printed on legal size paper labeled A to M ('I' is not used). The Key Plan outlines the extent and location of the Sheets, which follow immediately in the document.

Pathfinding

If you are searching for a specific headstone – say that for the oldest headstone in the burial ground (Jonathan Poole who died in 1678), take the following steps:

- Go to the green-paged spreadsheet – Sorted by Name and find Poole_Jonathan. Take note of the WHC number (R32) and Sheet letter (E)
- Turn to the first white page beyond the green Sort by Name pages and find Sheet E on the Key Plan. This will give you a general understanding where in the burial ground you need to search for R32.
- Go to Sheet E (white page beyond the Key Plan) and locate R32
- With a printout of Sheet E in hand (available from the digitized records), visit the Burial Ground and move to the general vicinity you have established from the Key Plan – in this case on the far West end of the OBG, in the center.
- Confirm your location using landmarks such as trees, notable monuments, tombs, and the layout of the headstones. In this case, you can see that the headstones are arranged in four distinct semi circles, and that R32 is in the outer circle, second stone in from the end.

- Stones elsewhere in the OBG may be more difficult to find. In those cases, get as close as you can, find a headstone that you can read and locate that headstone on the map as described above. This will help to zero in on your intended destination.
